North Shore Gas Company's Response to
Staff Data Requests DAS 3.01-3.21
Dated: March 17, 2011

REQUEST NO. DAS 3.04:

For each Company for each of the past five years please provide the following information:

- a. Does the Company have any evidence showing any costs to sales customers from incomplete cycling?
- b. Please provide the cost, if any, to the sales customers due to incomplete cycling.
- c. Does the Company have any evidence showing any costs to sales customers from transportation customer nomination patterns?
- d. Please provide the cost, if any, to the sales customers due to transportation customer nomination patterns.
- e. Please provide evidence of economic harm to sales customers of the sort indicated by the Companies' witness Mr. Connery on lines 333-334 on page 11 of his direct testimony.
- f. If there has been no evidence of such economic harm to sales customers, why is this advanced as a reason for these changes?

RESPONSE:

- a. Yes.

Incomplete cycling at Manlove Field can be expected to result in reduced peaking capability and seasonal deliverability. Additionally, some of the pipeline FERC tariffs for the Company's off-system storage services include provisions for failure to cycle. Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America LLC's ("NGPL") Rate Schedule DSS includes a provision that directly limits the maximum daily injection quantity in proportion to the ratio of ending season balance to maximum storage volume (MSV), and this also affects the Company's no-notice injection availability. NGPL Rate Schedule DSS also requires the shipper to have inventory that is at least 95% of the MSV at some time during the period October 15 to November 15; the failure to meet this inventory requirement reduces the available withdrawal quantity, and this also affects the Company's no-notice availability.

ANR Pipeline Company's ("ANR") Rate Schedule FSS includes a minimum cycling fuel charge for balances higher than 20 percent of MSV at April 30. Also, ANR's FSS requires the shipper to have inventory of at least 20% of the MSV in order to receive 100% of maximum daily withdrawal quantity.

- b. North Shore does not have a specific number of therms or number of dollars specifically associated with incomplete cycling. However, the Company would incur costs for not meeting the service requirements described in the response to subpart (a).

For example, under NGPL's Rate Schedule DSS, failure to meet the minimum inventory level and the resulting reduction in daily maximum withdrawal rights may require the Company to replace this lost capability in order to meet its winter storage needs. If the DSS inventory level is above 50% on April 30, then the Company would pay an "Unauthorized Inventory Cycling Rate" for quantities for which the Company has not obtained cycling relief from NGPL. If the DSS inventory level is above 0% on April 30, then the Company loses part of its daily maximum injection rights and the Company may need to replace the lost no-notice capability provided by this service.

For ANR Rate Schedule FSS, if the inventory level is below 20% during the winter, then the Company loses part of its daily maximum withdrawal rights and the Company may need to replace these services in order to meet its winter storage needs. For storage levels above 20% by March 31st the Company would incur the minimum cycling fuel charge.

- c. Please see NS DAS 3.04 Attach 01 which provides a daily data set for transportation customer daily deliveries, net sales customer purchases/deliveries, and sendout. The worksheet also shows calculations of the volatility of each data set and the correlation between the daily change in sendout and the daily change in transportation deliveries. Generally, one would expect the transportation customer deliveries to be less volatile than the sales customer deliveries, and that both (given the capabilities of storage to accommodate daily balancing) would be less than the volatility of sendout. The results, though, indicate higher than expected volatility for the sales customers' deliveries. Further, there is essentially no correlation between the daily changes in transportation deliveries to the daily change in sendout. The Company believes these data indicate that the sales customers' purchase/delivery activity is overly focused on system balancing, including accommodating the likely day over day sendout variation contribution from transportation customers.
- d. The Company does not maintain records which would be responsive to this question.
- e. The cited page number and line numbers do not address "economic harm." However, see the Company's responses to subpart (c) of this data request and to Staff data request DAS 3.12.
- f. The Company's proposed operating parameters are supported by reasonable modeling of its assets' capabilities and reasonable modifications to the parameters were developed and vetted through the small volume transportation program collaborative and the large volume transportation program workshop. The proposed operating parameters provide a fair structure for access to its system, including its aggregate storage capabilities, for all interested parties to abide by. The proposed operating parameters reduce the potential for transportation customers to "game the system" to the potential detriment of the sales customers.

The Company's current asset portfolio adequately supports demands on its system but the evidence of considerably higher volatility in the sales customer group purchases relative to the transporter deliveries noted in response to subpart (c) of this data request sufficiently demonstrates that its current tariff operating parameters, particularly regarding daily storage access, require fine tuning to alleviate some of the sales customers' disproportionate burden for daily system balancing.

ICC Docket No. 11-0281
The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company's Response to
Staff Data Requests DAS 3.01-3.21
Dated: March 17, 2011

REQUEST NO. DAS 3.04:

For each Company for each of the past five years please provide the following information:

- a. Does the Company have any evidence showing any costs to sales customers from incomplete cycling?
- b. Please provide the cost, if any, to the sales customers due to incomplete cycling.
- c. Does the Company have any evidence showing any costs to sales customers from transportation customer nomination patterns?
- d. Please provide the cost, if any, to the sales customers due to transportation customer nomination patterns.
- e. Please provide evidence of economic harm to sales customers of the sort indicated by the Companies' witness Mr. Connery on lines 333-334 on page 11 of his direct testimony.
- f. If there has been no evidence of such economic harm to sales customers, why is this advanced as a reason for these changes?

RESPONSE:

- a. Yes.

Incomplete cycling at Manlove Field can be expected to result in reduced peaking capability and seasonal deliverability. PGL DAS 3.04 Attach 01 – "Effect of Reduced Seasonal Withdrawal on Reservoir Performance", dated April 9, 1998, presents the results of a reservoir simulation study performed by Smedvig Technologies. PGL DAS 3.04 Attach 02 – "Manlove Field Trapped Gas Report", dated February 3, 2003, is a report by Charles R. Connaughton, a consultant to Peoples Gas. Both documents support this conclusion.

Additionally, some of the pipeline FERC tariffs for the Company's off-system storage services include provisions for failure to cycle. Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America LLC's ("NGPL") Rate Schedule DSS includes a provision that directly limits the maximum daily injection quantity in proportion to the ratio of ending season balance to maximum storage volume (MSV), and this also affects the Company's no-notice injection availability. NGPL Rate Schedule DSS also requires the shipper to have inventory that is at least 95% of the MSV at some time during the period October 15 to November 15; the failure to meet this inventory requirement reduced the available withdrawal quantity, and this also affects the Company's no-notice availability.

NGPL's Rate Schedule NSS requires a shipper to have inventory of at least 50% of the MSV in order to receive 100% of maximum daily withdrawal quantity, and this also affects the Company's no-notice availability.

ICC Docket No. 11-0281
The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company's Response to
Staff Data Requests DAS 3.01-3.21
Dated: March 17, 2011

ANR Pipeline Company's ("ANR") Rate Schedule FSS includes a minimum cycling fuel charge for balances higher than 20% of MSV at April 30. Also, ANR's FSS requires the shipper to have inventory of at least 20% of the MSV in order to receive 100% of maximum daily withdrawal quantity.

- b. Peoples Gas attempts to cycle Manlove Field in accordance with good field maintenance practices to avoid negative effects on performance. If incomplete cycling does occur, Peoples Gas would take appropriate and prudent steps, such as increasing summer injections, to avoid performance deterioration. Peoples Gas does not therefore have a specific number of therms or number of dollars specifically associated with incomplete cycling. However, the Company would incur costs for not meeting the service requirements described in the response to subpart (a).

For example, under NGPL's Rate Schedule DSS, failure to meet the minimum inventory level and the resulting reduction in daily maximum withdrawal rights may require the Company to replace this lost capability in order to meet its winter storage needs. If the DSS inventory level is above 50% on April 30, then the Company would pay an "Unauthorized Inventory Cycling Rate" for quantities for which the Company has not obtained cycling relief from NGPL. If the DSS inventory level is above 0% on April 30, then the Company loses part of its daily maximum injection rights and the Company may need to replace the lost no-notice capability provided by this service.

For NGPL Rate Schedule NSS, if the inventory level is below 50% during the winter, then the Company loses part of its daily maximum withdrawal rights and the Company may need to replace this lost capability. The Company maintains inventory above 50% at least through January's peak day to meet design day and other needs.

For ANR Rate Schedule FSS, if the inventory level is below 20% during the winter, then the Company loses part of its daily maximum withdrawal rights and the Company may need to replace these services in order to meet its winter storage needs. For storage levels above 20% at March 31st the Company would incur the minimum cycling fuel charge.

- c. Please see PGL DAS 3.04 Attach 03, which provides a daily data set for transportation customer daily deliveries, net sales customer purchases/deliveries, and sendout. The worksheet also shows calculations of the volatility of each data set and the correlation between the daily change in sendout and the daily change in transportation deliveries. Generally, one would expect the transportation customer deliveries to be less volatile than the sales customer deliveries, and that both (given the capabilities of storage to accommodate daily balancing) would be less than the volatility of sendout. The results, though, indicate higher than expected volatility for the sales customers' deliveries. Further, there is a slight negative correlation between the daily changes in transportation deliveries to the daily change in sendout. The Company believes these data indicate that the sales customers' purchase/delivery activity is overly focused on system balancing, including accommodating the likely day over day sendout variation contribution from transportation customers.

- d. The Company does not maintain records which would be responsive to this question.
- e. The cited page number and line numbers do not address "economic harm." However, see the Company's responses to subpart (c) of this data request and to Staff data request DAS 3.12.
- f. The Company's proposed operating parameters are supported by reasonable modeling of its assets' capabilities and reasonable modifications to the parameters were developed and vetted through the small volume transportation program collaborative and the large volume transportation program workshop. The proposed operating parameters provide a fair structure for access to its system, including its aggregate storage capabilities, for all interested parties to abide by. The proposed operating parameters reduce the potential for transportation customers to "game the system" to the potential detriment of the sales customers.

The Company's current asset portfolio adequately supports demands on its system but the evidence of considerably higher volatility in the sales customer group purchases relative to the transporter deliveries noted in response to subpart (c) of this data request sufficiently demonstrates that its current tariff operating parameters, particularly regarding daily storage access, require fine tuning to alleviate some of the sales customers' disproportionate burden for daily system balancing.
