Docket #120032

12-0032
Response

In response to your inquiry reading the above referenced Docket #; E Source is no longer acting as a broker or aggregator. Until the end of last year, we had been working with certain large commercial companies with multiple locations. We provided services so that they could successfully negotiate with suppliers of natural gas and electricity. We have left that business, and all of our customers have been transferred to other advisors. Some of those contracts between the commercial customers and the suppliers are still in effect, and so we will be receiving commissions until their successful completion.

I hope this clears up any lingering questions.

Best Regards,
