4. Description of Applicant's business. [454.40(c)(1)]

NJGEC is a comprehensive sustainable energy management firm that offers integrated energy solutions, energy efficiency platforms, demand response, supply procurement, renewable technology, and risk management to commercial clients. Our prime area of operation in the Illinois market will be brokering electricity to our national accounts.

5. A statement in support of application (including supporting documents and schedules if necessary) certifying the applicant meets the requirements of Section 16-115C of the Act. [454.40(d)(1)]

Technical competence: Raymond Perry has over 30 years of energy related investment banking experience as an institutional trader, of energy related product, energy equities including the largest utility and energy companies in the world. He has been involved in energy procurement since 2007. He is a certified Energy Auditor and Building Envelope Professional by the Building Performance Institute (BPI). Perry is also a graduate of the Rutgers Green Technology Program and holds a Solar PV installation certificate from Rutgers School of Engineering. His in-depth knowledge of energy market procurement process delivers much more than rate reduction; it provides a platform for managing a client's long term exposure to the volatile energy markets.

Managerial competence. Throughout his investment banking career, Raymond Perry has been responsible for managing multimillion dollar P&Ls as well as teams of trading and support personnel. Mr. Perry has managed all aspects of NJ Green Energy Consulting's business including a team of 6 independent agents since the company launched in January, 2013 without a single customer complaint. This includes annual reporting to the State of NJ and the NJ BPU. Prior to launching NJGEC, Mr. Perry managed D&R property management which managed a portfolio of single and multi-family rental properties.

The majority of new business comes from customer referrals and our website, www.njenergyconsulting.com . At present, NJGEC does not perform direct marketing.
