

The approximate answer times are based upon the best information available to the company at the time. The company does not separate the answer times for customer service calls by categories except in the case of outage reports that are given priority. The company is upgrading its software which we anticipate will allow us to separate the answer times into appropriate categories.